MEALS on WHEELS
OF CENTRAL MARYLAND
More than a meal™

ANNUAL REPORT 2018
Dear Friends,

As we reflect on the past year, we are struck by the power we have when we engage others in our mission to keep people living independently at home. We are in awe of the impact of that collective power. When we act as ambassadors of Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland, we become ‘force multipliers’, volunteering more time, knocking on more doors, delivering more meals and touching more lives.

This year, we delivered over 1,356,752 meals, a 9.1% increase over last year. With your support, we also:

- Completed 289 home improvements
- Made 143 volunteer connections for Friendly Companions and Phone Pals
- Matched 254 clients with volunteers for the Grocery Assistance Program
- Provided pet food support for 130 individuals through Kibble Connection
- Supported 92 clients through our case management program
- Reduced Emergency Room visits and hospitalizations for 75 people participating in the Care Coordination Demonstration Project
This is what we did, but why did we do this? We did these things for those you’ve heard about throughout the year.

We did it for Judy, who due to a back injury can no longer cook her own meals—a true personal struggle for someone who made all her kosher meals from scratch prior to her injury.

We did it for Ms. M., who is blind and although she has memorized how to prepare her favorite meals, she can no longer shop for the groceries needed to do it.

We did it for Doreen, who is 92 years old, and lives alone in a lovingly cared-for home, but can only move around by using a walker.

And we did it for Curry, who is 80 years old and acts as the sole caregiver for his wife Barbara, who lives with Parkinson’s Disease.

But we did not do it alone—we could not have done it without you!

Your gift of time, talent, and treasure is immeasurable. Although we like to count our accomplishments, we believe it was Albert Einstein who said, “Not everything that counts can be counted, and not everything that can be counted counts.”

Thank you, on behalf of Doreen and the others, to the dedicated volunteers, generous donors, community partners, foundation partners, and chefs and sponsors to our annual culinary event, who make this work possible.

Gratefully,

Alan E. Peljovich, P.E.

VOLUNTEERS: The Value in the Delivery

On the surface, the act of delivering a meal may not seem to garner much attention or great worth. However, when that meal is being delivered by a Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland volunteer, the value of the delivery increases exponentially. The impact of that meal delivery is evident immediately.

Over 1,800 dedicated volunteers deliver ‘more than a meal’ to each client we serve throughout Central Maryland. The impact of that work is found in the look in their eyes, the smile on their face, and the obvious relief that comes from knowing that their volunteer knows and cares about them, and is looking out for their well-being.

When volunteers get behind the wheel of their own vehicles to deliver meals, perform a wellness check and offer companionship, the reason seems simple, but, the impact is indeed significant.

While most volunteer to deliver meals and much more to aging adults, they also volunteer in a variety of other ways. This year, Grocery Assistance Program (GAP) volunteers made over 100 shopping trips monthly to help their clients access essentials from the store, and supplement their delivered meals. Kibble Connection volunteers supported the health of their clients’ pets by delivering 2,900 pounds of pet food every quarter. Phone Pals and Friendly Companion volunteers communicated through phone calls and visits with their clients 3,600 times to reduce the risk of depression that stems from being isolated and alone.

Although the countless volunteers’ hours, miles and trips are tracked, it is impossible to measure their motivation and desire to provide vital services to our neighbors.

For many volunteers, the ‘more than a meal’ delivery is valuable in and of itself, and the impact they have on the lives they serve motivates them to deliver as long as possible. While the average length of service is about 10 years, there are extraordinary examples of volunteers who extend well beyond the average. Recently, ten volunteers who have served for 40 years or more were honored at our annual recognition event. The 2018 Volunteer of the Year, Carole Melvin, has been volunteering for 39 years. Their histories alone represent a combined 478 years of service.
Volunteers like Carole who deliver consistently and see their clients every week for several months or even years, know the clients as well as the clients’ families. Carole recalls one client she served 16 years ago, who had severe osteoporosis causing her to be bent at the waist. Carole’s trusted relationship with her client grew into friendship with the son, whom she talked with about the everyday troubles or needs of her client. Carole became a friend and mentor to the young caregiver.

Oftentimes, the greatest issue facing our clients is loneliness, and the greatest impact our volunteers have on our clients is in the friendship and safety they provide when delivering a meal, dropping off groceries or pet food, or making a friendly phone call or visit. The value delivered by our committed and loyal volunteers is one of the many ways MOWCM drives impact.

Volunteer of the Year: Carole Melvin has been volunteering with MOWCM for 39 years.
Healthcare reform and growing research about the relationship between our home-delivered meal program and social determinants of health have led Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland (MOWCM) to further pursue partnerships with local hospitals. In our 2017 Annual Report, we told the story of our Care Coordination Demonstration Project (CCDP), a partnership with the Center for Successful Aging (CSA) at MedStar Good Samaritan Hospital funded by a generous three-year grant from the Leonard and Helen R. Stulman Foundation.

In its first year, the CCDP served 28 clients and reduced hospitalizations by 33 percent, a successful start. So the team set a modest goal of providing service to 40 clients in the second year. However, in year two, the project took off, enrolling 66 clients, thanks in large part to the dedicated efforts of the project’s Care Manager, Taylor Pitts. “The key to increasing enrollment levels was Taylor’s dedication to the project, so much so that our patients came to think of her as an extension of the CSA team,” said Dr. George Hennawi, MedStar’s Director of the Department of Geriatrics.

Dr. Hennawi understands the link between our program and better health outcomes, a ‘win’, not just for the clients but for the CSA team and MOWCM. This is echoed by MOWCM’s Executive Director Stephanie Archer-Smith, “As community hospitals become more involved in public health initiatives, and provide care to patients beyond the four walls of the hospital, organizations like ours can deliver crucial support services that both benefit individuals and strengthen communities by keeping people living healthy at home.”

In applying the lessons learned in the first year, the CCDP replicated its initial positive findings by continuing the trend in reductions in acute care utilization post service delivery and lowering rates of hospitalization by nearly 50 percent overall between project participants pre and post participation in the project. In addition to directly benefitting project participants, the CCDP has also been able to decrease cases of caregiver burden. This year, we were able to fully support several families in identifying viable solutions to the problems that threatened their stability.
In one particular case, a patient with progressive dementia began experiencing multiple falls, hallucinations and personality changes. Her daughter served as her sole-caregiver, providing medical, nutritional and personal support around-the-clock with little respite. After being referred to the Care Coordination Demonstration Project by the social work team at the Center for Successful Aging, she started receiving home-delivered meals, daily volunteer safety checks and weekly Care Manager phone calls. The combination of these services not only sustained the patient, but also revitalized her daughter by providing respite from her duties, an outlet to voice her concerns, and peace of mind in knowing that she was not alone.

MOWCM has used the lessons learned in the CCDP to engage new health partners throughout Maryland, including Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center, St. Agnes Hospital, and the University of Maryland Medical Center.

Care coordination initiated by a MOWCM partner has allowed a dementia patient to remain at home under the care of her family, rather than being moved into a substandard facility.
Imagine a time when nothing would stand in the way of ensuring that those individuals who are most in need would receive the nutritious meals and social interaction that is vital to their very existence. Imagine that you are able to make an impact in the lives of those people already mentioned in this report—Judy, Curry, Ms. M. and Doreen—not only on an annual basis, but also into perpetuity. Imagine better health and vitality for those who are homebound. Imagine the communities where they reside becoming stronger and more vibrant. Imagine if everyone extends their deep care and compassion into a legacy giving plan, like John and Carol Geist, what impact that may have.

John and Carol were supporters of Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland, Inc. (MOWCM) since its very inception. A dedicated community member, John’s introduction to the home-delivered meals program came early in his career with the Health and Welfare Council (now Maryland Nonprofits). In 1963, he staffed the task force that focused on unifying the Presbyterian, Lutheran and Jewish home-delivered meals programs into one stronger, area-wide program.

John and Carol knew then what many understand today: home-delivered meals and personal visits sustain our most vulnerable neighbors, but also strengthen families, and add value to our communities.
In a recent conversation, John recalled with fondness the early days when Baltimore Metropolitan Meals on Wheels, Inc. was created in 1967, and then when MOWCM was organized in 1990. A tireless volunteer, Carol began her service at the Franklin Street Presbyterian Church, followed by time spent at Faith Presbyterian Church on Loch Raven Boulevard. Delivering meals and spending treasured time visiting with homebound clients, whom she profoundly cared for, brought great joy to Carol.

Sadly, Carol was deceased in the fall of 2015. However, because of their personal experience with MOWCM, and their high regard for the program, Carol and John planned ahead for the legacy they wished to leave behind. They created a bequest for Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland, Inc. in their wills. The couple ensured their legacy gift would have a perpetual impact and always be there to benefit those who touched their lives so deeply.

“I hope the experience that Carol and I shared will inspire others to leave a legacy of their own.” John Geist

MOWCM invites you to create your Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland, Inc. legacy by remembering us in your will or trust. You may also designate MOWCM through your financial advisor. You have the choice to direct your gift to a specific purpose or make it unrestricted so that funds may be used in the areas of most need. When you create your legacy, like Carol and John, you ensure those who are homebound in Central Maryland will always receive vital nutrition, wellness checks, and personal visits from trusted volunteers.

LEGACY GIVING

The Mary C. Walker Legacy Giving recognition, named for a former donor, volunteer and member of the Board of Directors of Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland, acknowledges gifts that will sustain our mission of assisting people to age in the community with dignity through bequests, gift annuities and other planned giving.

The Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland staff has endeavored to make accurate the lists contained in this report. We ask that you notify us at 443.573.0930, or send us an e-mail to donations@mowcm.org should you observe any oversights or errors. Thank you.
Corporate LEADERS CIRCLE

Meals on Wheels of Central Maryland recognizes the Corporate Leaders Circle—Members whose annual contribution of $5,000+ demonstrates a commitment to ensuring that those who are homebound in our neighborhoods are given the opportunity to age in their community.
